A member of the Virginia delegation to Charleston and Baltimore paid a visit to Mr. Yancy, at Washington, just previous to the assemblage of the Baltimore Convention. At the same time, Mr. Yancy also received a visit from a very influential member of the New York delegation, a dis tinguished and ardent supporter and intimate confidant of Mr. Douglas.

The New Yorker commenced an unreserved conversation with Mr. Yancy, in presence and hearing of a Virginia delegate, by stating that the best means to unite the Democratic party and insure its suc cess, would be to couple the names of Messrs. Douglas and Yancy that this could Intermittent and Billions Fevers! be effected at once, if Mr. Yancy would but consent to take the Vice Presidential nomination, to be coupled with Mr. Douglas's nomination, for the Presidency.

With a quiet smile, and his usual bland manner, Mr. Yancy promptly replied that the arrangement was one to which he could under no circumstances, consent; that "oil and water would not mix."

The New Yorker then remonstrated; reminded Mr. Yancy that politicians were frequently obliged to resort to such expedients; and assured him that the arrangement proposed, if adopted, would secure not only Mr. Yancy's personal promotion, but the ultimate ascendancy of Mr. Yancey's political views and governmental policy; that Mr. Douglas was already so enfeebled by disease that he could scarcely live six months after the Presidential election, and thus Mr. Yancey's candidacy would be sure to make him not only Vice President, but, very soon President of the United States.

To all such persuasions Mr. Yancey re plied with the same polite and decided refusal to permit his name to be used on a ticket headed by that of Mr. Douglas.

Vesuveous Johnson in State of Eruption at Terre Haute. The Douglas candidate for Vice Presilent according to a dispatch in the Cincinnati Commercial, used the following lan-

"Abe Lincoln, the great rail splitter-I "Abe Lincoln, the great rail spiteter own twenty boys; any one can beat him at a day's work splitting rails, and give him two hundred. I would prefer one of them for President, so help me God, to Abe Lincoln!"

What do you think of that, ye freemen of the North? This nigger-driver, with aristocratic pomposity, swears he would rather see a Nagao President than Abraham Lincoln. If there is a Democrat that con vote for H. V. Johnson after this, he Mr. Johnson prefers a nero to Abraham Lincoln! Who is this that speaks so sneeringly of one of Nature's noblemen ! It is a man who perhaps never carned a dollar by hard work in his life; a man who rides in a fine corriage with servants to wait upon him, and lives upon the hard earnings of a hundred slaves, in indolence and luxury. This is the man that comes over to the Free North with his plantation of Free Labor, Abe Lincoln. God forbid that such a man should ever receive the votes of a free people.-Hornet. THE CAMELS IN TEXAS.—Capt. Echels, of the Topographical Engineers, has fully tested the fitness of the camels for service in the southwest, by his reconnoitering expeditions in north western Texas. The labor was very severe, and for six days in the heat of midsummer the camels did not have a drop of water. On the day that water was discovered, they indicated by their increased speed that they were aproaching water, though the stream was ten miles off.
